Preparing to Punish the Anarchists. CHICAGO, May 17,-Judge Roberts today empanelled the May grand jury, which is to consider the cases of the Haymarket anarchists and alleged bomb throwers. In the course of his instructions to the jury he said: "It is not only your province to deal with crime which has been committed, but to uphold the principles of law and in-culcate the doctrine in the men who teach riof, and who incite unlawful teach riot, and who incite unlawful gatherings to incendiary acts that they are responsible for the effects of those rantings. The red flag is a public menace. It is an emblem signifying that no quarter is to be given, and the police have the right to suppress these people to prevent the commission of crime; they have the right to quell all such disturbances, and the police, said the chief magistrate, of this city, did their duty when the time came and acted like men. Men have a right to strike; they have a right to quit work; but when they go one step further and say that others have not the right to work, they violate the law and should be punished."
